

Q2. Catcher f06c9fdf's Strengths and Weaknesses

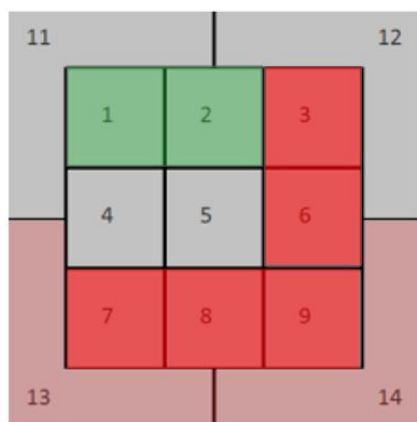

Strengths:

- Gets more strikes called on pitches thrown in the upper inside part (right-handed batter perspective) of the strike zone more often than other catchers in the league
See "All Pitches" Image
- Frames pitches thrown by right-handed pitchers outside of the upper outer part of the strike zone better than other catchers
See "Pitcher Side" Image
- Gets more strikes called on pitches thrown to left-handed batters in the upper part of the strike zone more often than other catchers
See "Batter Side" Image
- Frames changeups thrown outside of the upper inside part of the strike zone and sliders thrown outside of the upper outside part of the strike zone better than other catchers
See "Pitch Types" Image

Weaknesses:

- Gets more balls called on pitches thrown to the lower and outer part of the strike zone more often than other catchers in the league
See "All Pitches" Image
- Frames pitches below the strike zone worse than other catchers
See "All Pitches" Image
- Frames cutters and fastballs poorly
See "Pitch Types" Image

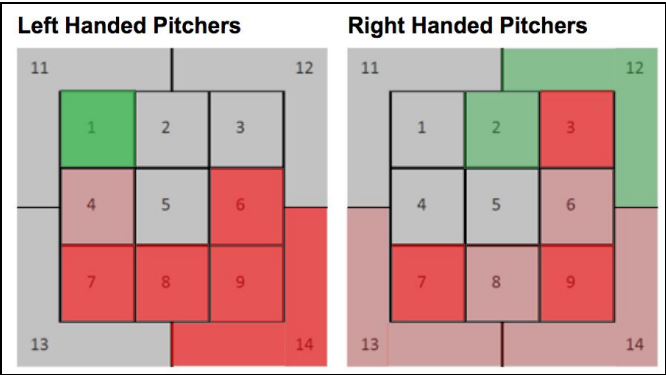

All Pitches

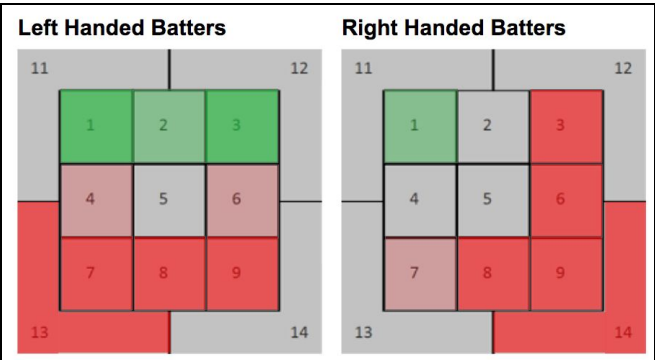

- Catcher f06c9fdf better than other catchers at getting non-swinging strikes called
Strikes called 5%+ more often
- Catcher f06c9fdf better than other catchers at getting non-swinging strikes called
Strikes called 2-5% more often
- Catcher f06c9fdf about the same as other catchers at getting non-swinging strikes called Strikes called within +/- 2% of all other catchers
- Catcher f06c9fdf weaker than other catchers at getting non-swinging strikes called
Strikes called 2-5% less often
- Catcher f06c9fdf weaker than other catchers at getting non-swinging strikes called
Strikes called 5%+ less often

Strike Zone: Catcher's Perspective

Pitcher Side

Batter Side

Pitch Type

